MANAGEMENT

MG54-3 Effective Management in Practice

This three-day programme is designed to build practical manager effectiveness across the core areas that drive team performance, delivery, and results. It focuses on strengthening the day-to-day behaviours, decisions, and approaches that underpin effective management in demanding environments. The programme moves from establishing strong foundations, through developing core management practices, to applying these in real-world contexts. Participants will leave with practical tools, greater clarity on their role, and a clear plan to improve their effectiveness and impact as a manager.

Who is the course suitable for?

This programme is designed for managers who want to strengthen their overall effectiveness and impact in their role. It is particularly relevant for those responsible for delivering results through others and who want to improve how they prioritise, make decisions, communicate, and manage performance on a day-to-day basis. It is suited to both new and experienced managers who are looking to build greater consistency in their approach, handle increasing demands more effectively, and develop the practical capabilities required to perform confidently and effectively in a management role.
